Squawks From the Apple Tree

The atrocities of war pale into insignificance by comparison with a new terror coming out of New Jersey. According to an Associated Press dispatch:

Consumers Sign for Sugar on May 4, 5, 6, 7

The Sugar Rationing for Consumers is scheduled to take place May 4, 5, 6 and 7 at the Elementary School buildings. A consumer is any one who uses sugar in any form.

Consumers are asked to apply at their nearest elementary school building for their Sugar Ration Stamp Book. Every man, woman and child, with few exceptions, in the United States will apply for a War Ration Book. However, one from the "family unit" may apply for all members of the unit.

A "Family Unit" means a group of two or more persons consisting of all persons living together in the same household who are related by blood, marriage or adoption.

The Ration Book is a folder containing 28 ration stamps. Each stamp will permit the holder to buy a fixed amount of sugar in a fixed period of time. The amounts and times are fixed by the government.

At this time the designation of ration periods and weight value of stamps valid therein are:

Stamp No. 1, May 5 to May 16
Stamp No. 2, May 17 to May 30
Stamp No. 3, May 31 to June 13
Stamp No. 4, June 14 to June 27

The War Ration Stamp Book will be the same for everybody. After these ration books are issued, no consumer can buy any more sugar than the stamp is good for, and without the stamp he can not buy any sugar at all. There is certain information that the consumer should bring with him at the time application is made for War Ration Book, such as, height, weight, color of eyes, color of hair, and age for each consumer on each application blank.

Also, the total amount of white and brown sugar which is owned by the "family unit" or the consumer.

The elementary schools, Paisley, Oglesby and Brookwood will be opened at 9 o'clock in the morning and will close at 5 o'clock in the afternoon for registration. Yerger high school will be open at the same hours for the colored consumers of the city. Also the colored consumers of Mt. Hebron and Mt. Olive schools will get their War Ration Stamp Book at Yerger High school.

The colored schools—Haynes Chapel and Highland—will receive their War Ration Stamp Book at Haynes Chapel. However, an application for a War Ration Stamp Book can be issued to both white and colored at any school in the district which is open for that purpose. It is advisable, however, to apply to the nearest school to your place or home.

Attention is called to the United States Criminal Code which "makes it a criminal offense, punishable by a maximum of ten years imprisonment, ten thousand ($10,000) dollar fine to make a false statement or representation to any department or agency of the United States to any matter within the jurisdiction of any department or agency of the United States."

Playground at Park Opens

Fair Park, Hope's Summer playground is now open to the public for tennis and other outdoor sports.

Under the direction of the recreation council and the Garden clubs of Hope, the grounds are being made attractive with flowers and shrubs, and a new coat of paint for the playground equipment.

It is expected that there will be a greater number of participants this year due to the shortage of cars, keeping people at home. Recreation there will be under the supervision and direction of WPA Recreation leaders.

Axis Partners Complete Two Day Conference

By the Associated Press

Adolf Hitler and Benito Mussolini whose meetings in the past have frequently signaled the approach of momentous events met in a two-day conference ending Thursday at Salzburg, Austria, it was officially reported Friday.

A German communique said the Axis dictators met in a "spirit of close friendship and the indissoluble brotherhood in arms of their nations."

Informed British quarters declared the purpose of the conference obviously was to keep Mussolini in line.

Hitler must keep both ends of the Axis moving in the same direction, the quarters said, and to do this he must give Mussolini a pep talk.

It was the first meeting of the Fuehrer and the Duce since the outbreak of the war against the United States last December. The official account said:

"The meeting resulted in a perfect accord of views on the situation created by the overwhelming victories of the Tripartite powers and on the further conduct of the war by the two nations both in political and military spheres."

There was no mention of Japan, the third members of the Rome, Berlin and Tokyo bloc having been represented at the meeting.

A curious sidelight of the new Axis conference was that it was not held at the halfway point at Brenner pass where Hitler and Mussolini have met often in the past.

Salzburg, in former Austria, is 100 miles north of the pass.

Death Penalty Asked in Jones Murder Trial

ARKADELPHIA (AP)—The state demanded the death penalty and the defense asked for a manslaughter verdict Friday against Kirby Jones, 37, former N.Y.A. supervisor on trial here for the death of his former secretary, pretty Mary Doll Furlow, 19.

Prosecutor Boyd Tuckell of Murfreesboro, assistant prosecutor in handling the case for the state, told the jury that Jones was a married man and was father of Miss Furlow's unborn child and killed the girl to keep the affair secret.

Jones admitted on the stand Thursday that Miss Furlow died after he struck her with a billet when she became hysterical during an attempted self abortion.

Defense attorney R. T. Boulware asked for a manslaughter verdict saying the evidence did not justify conviction for either first or second degree murder.

The case was given to the jury at 12:45 p. m.

Where Uncle Sam Is Freezing Rents

Under the OPA order designed to combat the rising cost of living, rents will be frozen or reduced for the 86,000,000 people living in the 323 defense-rental areas indicated in black on the map above. In four-fifths of the areas, rents will be stabilized as of March 1st, which is expected to eliminate increases on spring moving and leasing dates. In 64 areas, on account of "exorbitant" increases, Price Administrator Henderson recommended reducing rents to levels in effect on Jan. 1, April 1, or July 1, 1941. Note that North Dakota and Idaho are the only States having no defense-rental areas.

Belgium Acid Plant Ruined

LONDON (AP)—A chemical factory at Tessenderloo in the new industrial district of northern Belgium—a particular zone of activity for the anti-German "White Brigade" of the conquered Belgians—has been destroyed in an explosion which according to German radio reports killed 250 persons and injured 1,000.

Homecoming at Ouachita

ARKADELPHIA—Ouachita College will observe homecoming in connection with commencement, May 23, 24, and 25, President J. R. Grant has announced. Featuring the first of these "red letter" days will be senior class activities and a fine arts program in the evening.

On Sunday morning, May 24, Rev. E. Herndon Westmoreland, pastor of South Main Baptist church, Houston, Texas, and an alumnus of Ouachita college, will deliver the baccalaureate sermon. In the afternoon there will be a band concert in the new auditorium, followed by the annual graduation day parade honoring the senior R.O.T.C. officers, who will receive their reserve commissions as second lieutenants in the U. S. Army, at that time.

Dr. Robert G. Lee, pastor of Bellevue Baptist church, Memphis, Tenn., well known as a denominational leader and author, will be the guest speaker at the commencement exercises on Monday morning, May 25.

The Ouachita summer school will open on Monday, June 1. The first term will end July 4, and the second term will open July 6 and close August 8. A total of twelve semester hours may be earned by persons attending both terms.

Due to the urgency of war conditions, many students will continue their studies this summer, in earlier than has been customary.

Spring Hill to Hold Singing Sunday

There will be a community singing program at the Spring Hill church Sunday night, May 3, L. H. Mitchell, chairman announced. Several quartets are expected. The public is invited.

Corporation Tax Proposed

WASHINGTON (AP)—A flat tax that would leave corporations only $1 out of every $10 of excess profits gained strong support in the House Ways and Means committee Friday as chairman Doughton (D. N. C.) announced that votes would be taken at once on new corporation tax program designed to raise 3 billion dollars.

A recommendation for a 90 per cent levy as a substitute for the present graduated scale of from 35 to 60 per cent was presented to the committee its own treasury statisticians Thursday along with suggestions for revising the tax base to strike at the largest companies and for doubling the present exemption given to all.

The new scheme recommended too, that excess profit incomes be subjected only to the excess profit tax and not to the normal and taxes as at the present.

Red Rises to 33 Foot Mark

Red river surprised forecasters overnight rising 1 1/2 feet to 33 feet and continued to swell late Friday. Flood stage at Fulton is 24 feet.

Observers now expect the river to rise another foot to 34 feet, the original prediction during the current rise.

The Highway Department announced that highway 55, from Fulton to Saratoga and Okay was now under one foot of water in several places but was still passable late Friday.

As yet no serious breaks have been reported in the west levee but residents expressed the belief that it would not hold long.

Decision on Sales Tax Favors State

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Pulaski county Chauncery Judge Dodge Friday upheld the right of the Revenue Department to collect state 2 per cent retail sales tax from three Arkansas industries on electric power and natural gas consumption.

A total of $118,364 has been paid into the court registry since the suit was instituted in 1935 to guarantee payment of the tax in the event the levy was finally held to be due.

British Now Only 30 Miles From Mandalay

By the Associated Press

Escaping a Japanese entrapment sweep British troops guarding the right flank of the Allied line in Burma fell back 80 miles to new defense sector only 30 miles below Mandalay.

Imperiled by Japanese thrust to Lashio, 130 miles northeast of Mandalay the British were said Friday to have withdrawn to protect the overland route to India.

Situation Still Acute

While the crisis for Burma remained acute with Japanese invaders now standing at the gateway to China astraddle the Burma road Chinese announcements declared the fall of Lashio would not halt the flow of Chinese reinforcements for continued defense of northern Burma.

Other Supply Routes

However, the Chinese said, alternate supply routes from India to China were already in working order.

China dispatches said Lashio, captured by the Japanese Wednesday, was reduced from a "seeming boom town to smoking rubble heaps by Japanese bombing assaults and the Allies scorched earth policy.

Travel Bureau Is Commended

Citizens of Hempstead County

On April 20, Rev. J. E. Hamill, president of the Hope Kiwanis club announced that the Kiwanis club, in cooperation with the Hope Chamber of Commerce had set up a Travel Bureau in an effort "to conserve automobiles, tires and to assist those who may be without this means of travel during the war."

In behalf of the Hempstead County Defense Council I want to commend to the attention of all citizens this splendid and active expression of useful patriotism. Everyone who plans to go out of the county, via automobile, should first telephone the Chamber of Commerce office, 940, and offer or seek transportation. Through this medium of helpfulness automobiles and tires can be conserved. What the Kiwanis club and Chamber of Commerce have set up is no joke. The Travel Bureau should receive the fullest cooperation of all loyal citizens. Yesterday's Arkansas Gazette, reported on the front page, that President Roosevelt directed to all federal departments and agency heads the following communication:

"It is imperative that we extend as long as possible that period of time in which we can count on private transportation of factory and office workers to their places of work and home again." Saying the transportation problem, caused by the rubber shortage and gasoline curtailment "is rapidly becoming critical" in many communities, Mr. Roosevelt asserted the reduction program "should be undertaken immediately and thoroughly," and, right in line with that two wide awake local organizations have already done, our President had this to say, "I am also sending a copy of this letter to the Council of State Government, the American Municipal Association and the United States Conference of Mayors asking that they use their influence to bring about the inauguration of similar programs in the state and local governments."

In sober thought let us consider what our President has asked.

A Prelude to the Fireworks

By JACK STINNETT

WASHINGTON — The spring lull in Capitol Hill is almost over. The President practically put an end to it the other day when he tossed in his message to congress outlining the administration's ideas of the legislative needs to prevent that vicious spiral of prices and wages that is called inflation. The finishing touches on anything that faintly resembles Congressional compromise will come when the chips are in with your reactions to the President's fireside chat, explaining those administration ideas to you and you.

There is one peculiar thing about this lull in the Capitol chambers and corridors, and that is that through it all congress has been sitting quietly on more dynamite than has been seen around here in a year or more. This dynamite was in the form of bills introduced, bills in committee, bills ready for debate and a vote—all of them dealing with those vital matters of price control, rationing, the wages and hours of labor, the wartime regulation of labor unions, corporate and personal profits, ceilings on incomes. And any one or all of these, if passed, could have more effect on you, whether you warm luxurious leather behind a mahogany desk in Wall Street, or hoe a rocky acre at the forks of the creek, than anything that has been done since Pearl Harbor.

It took a lot of phlegm by administrative leaders on the hill to keep congress sitting quietly while the president drew up his overall program.

That Connally bill in the senate, not a drastic measure in itself but clearing the way for argument and possible amendments on every labor issue from wage control to the closed shop, almost blew the lid off.

Although still in committee, the Smith-Vinson bill in the house of representatives threatened to cause a similar explosion in the Capitol's smoking wing.

The president's right hand men in congress had some bad moments before they got all this dynamite wrapped up and labeled not to be opened until the President had his say.

Those who crave action may be asking why the delay. I know at least the administration answer. It is simply that they don't want any laws passed in the heat of battle that might blemish on the war effort. Some of the laws proposed, in the opinion of the administration, might have done just that. That's why the President took a hand. That's how the lull came about.

But it's almost over and if you like legislative fireworks, keep your eyes on Capitol Hill. Only a drenching downpour of public indifference can put out the fuses now.

That is what Japan fears from air raids. Its cities and towns are built of inconceivably flimsy and inflammable materials—excepting the most modern structures in the key cities. Under a rain of bombs, they would burn up as fiercely as a Christmas tree afire.

From their experience with earth quakes (some 600 are recorded each year), the Japanese know what fire can do to them. As a direct result of the Great Earthquake of September 1, 1923, about one-fifth of Japan's national wealth was destroyed and upwards of 250,000 persons (the unofficial estimate, denied by the government) lost their lives in the flaming inferno.

An impressive parallel can be drawn between the terrific effect of earthquakes and the man-made terror that is loosed from the sky. Fire invariably follows in the wake of both.

Air Raid Precautions Are "Pathetic"

And, considering this threat of raid-started fires, Nippon's air-raid precautions are pathetically purposeless and inadequate. In the first place, the government has not had the funds to expend for air-raid shelter construction.

Another fact: Tokyo, with its 7,000,000 inhabitants, Yokohama, Kobe, Nagoya, and the enormous industrial city of Osaka, are all of them partly built on ground previously reclaimed from the sea. So even shallow digging in many important localities soon meets with rising water. The Imperial Hotel, in Tokyo, for example, is situated on ground that is as soggy as a wet sponge.

The building of air-raid shelters—because it is laid just underneath the surface.

Most of the details of a typical Tokyo air-raid drill, by night, consist of A. R. P. wardens running around and ordering the excited populace to turn off their lights. In modern aerial warfare, night raiders drop a great many flares before they commence unloading their "eggs." However, the Japanese seem to have failed utterly to take this into consideration.

Somehow, one cannot help gaining the impression that the majority of Japanese feel that the darkness of a black-out city carries full protection against sudden death that may rain from the skies. And yet neither by day nor by night do they have any kind of adequate shelter—such as the rock caves at Chungking—where they might hide.

Japan's air-raid drills also include the spectacle of men in rubber suits running hither and thither, sprinkling white powder where imaginary bombs are supposed to have landed. Factually, in case of real raids it would be just "every man for himself."

Throughout Japan, oil storage tanks stick out like sore thumbs. Practically all of them are situated in surprisingly vulnerable places. Almost invariably they are smack up against cities, most of which are built of wood and plaster and paper. On their roofs they have heavy tiles that in serious earthquakes cause more casualties than, perhaps, any other agents. When roofs buckle, these tiles come down in an avalanche.

Japan's arsenals, also, most of them from Matsuura to Otsu, are placed dangerously near to residential and business areas. Only Tokyo and Osaka have a few wide traffic arteries, which, nevertheless, in event of a holocaust, should be found ineffective in affording a speedy evacuation of a populace that readily flies into a panic, anyway. This I have seen with my own eyes.

Lack of Roads For Evacuees

Therefore, in a great conflagration, following a terrific bombing, the congestion in the streets would be known to bounds. Both Tokyo and Yokohama witnessed this sort of unbridled confusion following the Great Earthquake.

Rioting broke out. People commenced killing each other. Wild looting went on unrestrainedly until the bluejackets were landed at Yokohama (when it was altogether too late) and troops of the Imperial Bodyguards Division instituted martial law in Tokyo.

Kobe, my birthplace, Japan's foremost port city, rises up from the harbor, and crowds upward to the very tree-line of the mountains.

Here, in event of an air bombing, the populace immediately would be found facing a dilemma most frightful. For a holocaust in this over-crowded mart, laced with the narrowest of streets, would set the pine-clad mountains aflame, spreading a furious forest-fire.

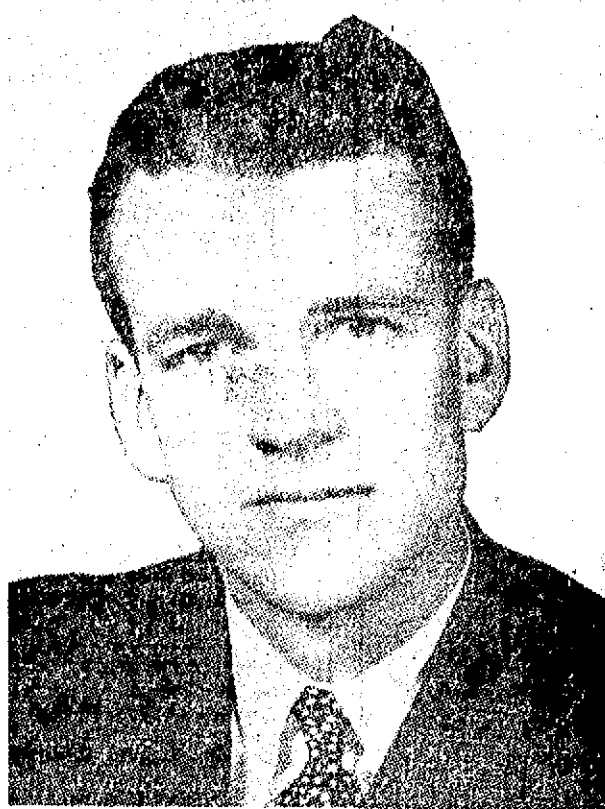

Such a fire could sweep inland for miles—far into the interior, feeding on forests all the way, and licking up farm villages as it progressed. Kobe's drinking water reservoirs are situated in the mountains, directly back of the city. Moreover, these reservoirs, constituting Kobe's entire water supply, are ringed with the most inflammable underbrush imaginable, and more tall pines.

And next to Nagasaki, Kobe is the seat of Japan's most important shipbuilding industry. A wide area of the perimeter of the harbor is reserved for dockyards; and beyond this, and a bit of the coastline, is another vast area holding oil-storage tanks.

Rivers and Canals Are Added Hazards

Accordingly, the people of Kobe, in an air attack, could find no safety in flight to the hills. To

Rev. James W. Middleton to Conduct Baptist Revival

The revival which opens at First Baptist church Sunday will conclude this church's contribution to the city-wide "Go to Church Campaign." With the goal of every person in Hope attending church somewhere, the churches of the city have experienced increased attendance at all services. It is hoped that this revival will reach all who have not yet been in church attendance, and who have no preference for some other church in the community.

"In these critical days through which we are passing it is vitally important that we find our bearings in relation to the will of God," commented the Rev. W. R. Hamilton in speaking of the revival Friday. "The best way for us to have God on our side is for us to learn His will and get on His side. Rev. James W. Middleton, who comes Monday to assist in this revival effort, is well qualified to show us the way to God."

Rev. Middleton, a graduate of Mississippi College and the Southern Baptist Theological Seminary in Louisville, Ky., has led churches in Kentucky, Mississippi and Texas in great programs of soul-winning and spiritual growth.

Sunday's services will be at 10:50 and 8 o'clock with the local pastor preaching on the subjects, "Lost!" and "Saved." The services during the week are to be at 10 a. m. and 8 p. m.

Harrison in Hollywood

Geography Lesson

HOLLYWOOD — The most widely sprawled city in the world, Los Angeles, never has been able to strangle Hollywood or to destroy its individuality. The two are wed by corporate bond, but their relationship is like that of a movie star married to a non-celebrity and determined to keep her maiden name. Although it never has enjoyed any official separate existence, Hollywood now has been given specific geographical boundaries. Such recognition comes a little late because Hollywood already has extended itself far beyond mere physical limits. If you write a letter to, say, Robert Taylor, Hollywood, Calif., it will be delivered promptly at Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer in Culver City. Write to Bette Davis, Hollywood, Calif., and the postal people will flip your letter to Warner Brothers in Burbank. In the same scattered way, 20th Century-Fox is in Westwood Village, Republic is in the town of North Hollywood, and Universal is in Universal City.

Still Sherwood
A few years ago Warner found a wooded area some 35 miles out of Los Angeles and there filmed much of Errol Flynn's "Robin Hood." On the company's daily call sheet, the place was identified as Sherwood Forest. And Sherwood Forest it remains today, officially. Incidentally, Flynn and a movie troupe are back there now, only this time Sherwood Forest is doubling for the Black Forest of Germany for scenes in "Desperate Journey."

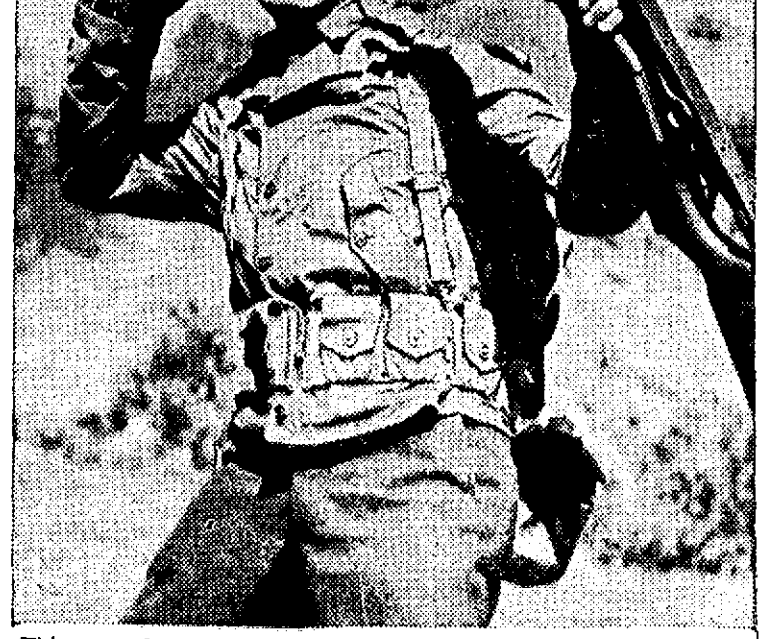

Along the eastern edge of Hollywood proper is a district called Mixville, where the late Tom Mix made some of his earliest thrillers and where he invested a good deal of the proceeds in real estate. Overlooking Mixville is a still elegant residential region on the western face of a midjet mountain which Antonio Moreno once topped with a rambling mansion. The district is still called Moreno Highlands, and a Moreno Street, a Moreno Place and a Moreno Drive crisscross confusingly.

Sam Is Honored
DeMille Drive borders one of the swankier estate sections of a nearby part of hilly Hollywood. There's a Goldwyn Avenue in Culver City commemorating Sam Goldwyn's tempestuous association with the studio which still uses his name along the Metro and Mayer.

Virtually all the picture pioneers had streets or parks named for them—such as Pickford Way and Fairbanks Place. A street in San Fernando Valley has been christened Priscilla Lane.

South of the Warner Studio in Burbank rises a respectable eminence once known as Calhoun Peak. Soon after the studio was established, press agents made arrangements to rechristen it Warner Mountain. A preliminary survey disclosed that the top was covered with undramatic sagebrush, so the prop department made a large papier-mache rock, which was dragged up, by tractor along the real champagne. Company with newscell equipment and a bot-officials and a few pretty actresses trudged up under their own power. At the climax of the ceremony a studio cutie swung the bottle—and bashed a big hole in the phony boulder.

Registration of Women Halts

WASHINGTON —(AP)— President Roosevelt announced Friday that plans for voluntary registration of women for war activities have been dropped.

He disclosed this had been done after Paul V. McNutt, in charge of mobilizing man and woman power for the war effort had consulted women and members of the Social Security board, and the Federal Advisory Council and had been told that over the country there were more women who want jobs than openings for them.

He indicated to his press conference that the decision not to go ahead with voluntary registration of women was not necessary permanent and that such listing might be necessary at some future time.

Almost 1,500,000 women, Roosevelt said, are registered with local employment services offices.

Replying to a question the President declared that not all of the 1,500,000 who have registered wanted war jobs in industries but apparently there were sufficient applications for war tasks to take care of the situation at the present time.

The advisory council, he said, recommended that state laws governing working conditions of women should be preserved and even extended in some states with inadequate statutes.

Selectees Are Rotary Guests

Six of 30 invited selectees attended the Rotary club luncheon Friday noon in First Christian church as guests of the club, a tribute to the men who are leaving for service with the armed forces this spring.

C. C. Spragins and Terrell Cornelius address the new soldiers, Mr. Spragins discussed a soldier's contribution to citizenship, and Mr. Cornelius giving his personal recollections of Army life in 1917-18.

The program was arranged by Lyman Armstrong.

A guest who also appeared on the program was Congressman Clyde Ellis, candidate for the senate.

Clyde Ellis Is Hope Visitor

Congressman Clyde Ellis of the Third Arkansas district, a candidate for the United States Senate, was in Hope Friday meeting local people.

He spoke briefly at the Rotary club luncheon in First Christian church, giving encouraging figures on present production of warplanes and tanks for the American expeditionary forces. By request, however, the figures are withheld from publication.

Mr. Ellis left Hope during the afternoon en route to the Arkansas Bar association convention at Hot Springs this week-end.

Army Engineers Build Island

NIAGARA FALLS, N. Y.—The United States and Canada are starting a venture designed to provide additional electric power to meet war demands and, at the same time, conserve the beauty of the Falls.

The double-barreled project involves construction of a weir, or submerged dam, in the Canadian channel of the Niagara river above Horseshoe Falls and will provide another attraction for tourists lured by the famed cataract. It is scheduled to be completed this year.

Water Level Comes Up

Engineers representing the U. S. Army and the Ontario hydro-electric commission assert the weir will raise the water level at various points where water is diverted for hydro-electric power production, and will force more water into the American channel, thus adding to the splendor of the American falls.

"By spreading the water more evenly," one engineer explains, "We believe erosion of the Horseshoe Falls should be retarded and scenic beauty retained even if there is greater diversion for power."

The weir, about 2,000 feet long, will be constructed between Canada and an island to be created 2,200 feet upstream from Goat Island. A channel on either side will permit sufficient water to flow over Horseshoe Falls. The top of the weir will be five feet under water when the water is at its lowest.

Cable Cars Necessary

Preliminary to the dam's construction, a 16-foot wide, rockfilled causeway, to transport materials, will be built from Goat Island to a point where the upper rapids starts. There, will be created the new island, measuring 300 feet long and 100 feet wide.

Upon this island and Canadian shore will be constructed 150-foot steel towers along a line parallel to the proposed weir. The towers will support cables to be used as a track for buckets carrying rock for the dam from the Canadian shore.

After the weir is completed a study of the river's waterflow will be made and the cableway will be employed to make periodic adjustments. When the water-flow meets with approval of engineers, the towers and stone causeway will be removed, leaving the new island a permanent fixture.

Erosion Enemy of Farmlands

Wide World Features
Over thousands of acres of farm land throughout the United States, soil experts and conservationists are battling one of nature's worst menaces—soil erosion.

Improper tillage, failure to plant trees or binding grasses, and water runoffs are the chief causes of extensive erosion. It has rendered useless hundreds of acres of rolling lands that once were fertile.

Rough tillage—the plowing under of heavy refuse from wheat and pea crops—hillslop planting, tree and grass planting and the control of water runoffs are urged upon farmers by state and federal agencies.

Fur-bearing animals and game can be legally branded when in a private park or fur farm.
